[Verse 1]
B
Twenty one years ago, I met a girl in my head
                                                  E
She said she couldnâ€™t cry enough to keep her eyes wet
                                          B
And they were pretty things, all crystally cold
B
So we walked in the streets and onto some holy ground
                                                  E
I tore through all my head, I couldn t tear through the soundings
                                          B
Of her silhouette and teeth to the sweetest degree

[Chorus]
Ebm   E   B
   Now summerâ€™s over darling
Ebm   B
   and I can only sleep
Ebm   E   B
   But lately I ve been wondering
Ebm   E   E
   with all the world beneath

[Verse 2]
B
Twenty one years ago, I met the ghost of a ghost
                                                E
She had a hazy heart and pretty spots under her clothes
                                            B
And I could see them there creeping out of her sleeves
B
She smoked her cigarettes, I watched her color TV
                                              E
We both tried to forget that life is all what it seems
                                          B
Just creatures caught up in all their own tragedies

[Chorus]
Ebm   E   B
  Now all this glassy wandering
Ebm   E   B

```
   may break so easily
Ebm        E          B
   But lately I am drifting
Ebm                 E                E         B with all the world beneath me
