C F
Oh the men, they come to me, with their sad faces;

C
They ask me, what they should do.

F C Am F
They ask me why my smile, why it never fades.

C G C
I just tell them, I miss someone, too.

C F
We haven't had a night's sleep in so long,

C G
That I can't remember when I last prayed.

F C
And if they ask me why I'm smiling,

Am F
I'll tell them I've got you;

C G C
I'll tell them I've got you for me.

/CHORUS/

Am F C
Well they say it takes a man to shoot a rifle,

Am F G
Well then I'd rather be called a boy.

Am F C
And they say it takes a man to not be homesick,

F G
Well then I must confess...

/VERSE TWO/

C F
Oh the men, they keep dreaming,

C G
They tell me all about how much they miss you.

F C Am
Well the men, they don't know it -

F
They don't know half of it;

C G
They're going to meet you one day...

/BRIDGE/

Am F C
I've been here waiting, I've been twiddling my thumbs,

Am F G
Hoping, one day you'd open the door...

Am F
Well that door it finally opened,

C Am F G
And I saw your eyes. That's when, I started to cry.

Am F C Am F
Because I never knew till then, and I'll never forget it now;

G
I love you.

Am F C Am F
Yes I never knew till then, and I'll never forget it now;

G
I love you.
