Intro

C E7 F F7 F (higher up) G#

Verse 1

F Fm C E7

Your heart is promised to a man, So I have no hope to win it
But consider my proposal, Sir, if you can find a minute
I think that the future of our species will be better with you in it

C D F

I know you have your problems, And maybe I have mine

But you should leave someone to carry on, When you have turned to dust Plant your genome in an infant, Sir, I think it's only just
And you would need someone to bear this child, A woman you can trust
I'll put my body on the line

Chorus 1

C E7 F Fm

Oh, Stephen Fry I see no reason why, You wouldn't want someday maybe, Let me have your baby,

F7 F-high G#

You would be amazed what science does these days, So think it over and send along your seed.

Verse 2

I am ideal for this position which I hope you will no doubt
I've got those child bearing hips you always hear so much about
I have permission from my boyfriend and he'd like to help you out
I know it isn't much but it's what I have to give and I don't drink and I don't smoke
And I eat all my leafy greens, I'll try to go to bed much earlier
I'll get all my vaccines, And I'll put headphones on my belly
And I'll cut back on caffeine, I'll hang an iPad in the crib

Chorus 2

Oh, Stephen Fry I see no reason why, You wouldn't want someday maybe, Let me
have your baby

And I'm in my prime, So you've got loads of time, So when you're ready,
Send along your seed
