The Never Played Symphonies Morrissey Verse 1: Reflecting from my deathbed I m balancing life s riches against the ditches and the flat gray years in between All I can see are the never-laid That s the never-played symphonies Verse 2: I can t see those who tried to love me All those who felt they understood me and I can t see those who very patiently put up with me All I can see are the never-laid Or the never-played symphonies C -> C7 Chorus: You were one, you meant to be one and you jumped into my face and laughed and kissed me on the cheek and then were gone forever C ...not quite Verse 3: Black sky in the daytime and I don t much mind dying When there is nothing left to care for anymore Just the never-laid, the never-played symphonies Chorus:

You were one, you knew you were one and you slipped right thru my fingers $$\bf Am$$ $$\bf F$$ No not literally but metaphorically $$\bf G$$ $$\bf C$$ and now you re all I see as the light fades
