[Verse 1]
F#m   C#
    I m trapped and my back s up against the wall
                                        F#m
I see no solution or exit out
                                    C#
I m grinding it out, no one can see
                                        F#m
The pressure s growing exponentially
                                          C#
I m trying to keep up to speed with you
                                      F#m
Your lane changing is oscillating me
                                            C#
I m hitting the ground and I m sprinting
                                      F#m
I m falling behind now I m tuning out

I see your corruption
        F#m
I m not blind
                                    C#
I ll carry the burden and take the strain
                                  F#m
And when I am done I will make you pay
