Early Sunsets Over Monroeville
My Chemical Romance

[Intro]

(C   Am   Em G) (x2)

[Verse 1]

```
C              Am     Em      G  C           Am        Em      G
Late dawns and early sunsets  , just like my favorite scenes
C           Am        Em      A  G   C           Am        Em    G
Then holding hands and life was perfect, just like up on the screen

Am            Em         Fm      G
And the whole time while always giving
Am            Em    Fm         G
Counting your face among the living
```

[Interlude]

C            Am    Em  G  C             Am        Em        G
Up and down escalators  , pennies and colder fountains
```

[Verse 2]

```
C     Am      Em         A  G   C           Am        Em         G
Elevators and half price sales, trapped in by all these mountains
Am       Em      Fm      G
Running away and hiding with you
Am       Em          Fm      G
I never thought they d get me here
Am            Em           Fm        G
Not knowing you changed from just one bite
Am            Em      Fm     G                   Am
I fought them all off just to hold you close and tight
```

[Chorus]

```
But does anyone notice?
                Em
But does anyone care?
                                           Fm
And if I had the guts to put this to your head...
                      G                    Em
But would anything matter if you re already dead?
```

```
                Fm                                        G
And should I be shocked now by the last thing you said?
                      Em
Before I pull this trigger,
                        Fm
Your eyes vacant and stained...

[Chorus]

                G
But does anyone notice?
                Em
But does anyone care?
                  Fm                  G
And if I had the guts to put this to your head...
                    Em                      Fm
And would anything matter if you re already dead?
                  G                              Em
And now should I be shocked by the last thing you said?
                    Fm
Before I pull this trigger,
                    G
Your eyes vacant and stained...
                  Em
And in saying you loved me,
                      Fm
Made things harder at best,
                        G
And these words changing nothing
              Em
As your body remains,
                    Fm
And there s no room in this hell,
                    G
There s no room in the next,
                  Em
And our memories defeat us,
                    Fm
And I ll end this direst.

[Chorus]

                G
But does anyone notice?
                Em
But does anyone care?
                  Fm                          G
And if I had the guts to put this to your head...
                    Em                      Fm
But does anything matter if you re already dead?
                  G                              Em
```

And should I be shocked now by the last thing you said?
                        Fm
Before I pull this trigger,
                         G
Your eyes vacant and stained...
                      Em
And in saying you loved me,
                       Fm
Made things harder at best,
                     G
And these words changing nothing
            Em
As your body remains,
                     Fm
And there s no room in this hell,
                   G
There s no room in the next,
              Em
But does anyone notice there s a corpse in this bed?
