                  A       G
D       Trippin down that old hippie highway,       got to thinkin bout you again,
  A                                   G                                   D                                   A
  G
D       wonderin how it really was for you,       and how it happened in the end.
  A                                   G                                   D
A                   G
But I guess I ll never know the truth,       if you were really all alone.
