G#                      D#                      B                      C#
More times than five, I ve been right here by your side.

E                                      B    D#
Still wondering...where did you go?

G#                      D#                      B                      C#
Walk down the hall in a mental menacle;

E                                      F#
Don t want to be round, when you take yourself out.

B                                      F#
But I have more vigour than this.

G#                                      D#
Step to the plate to swing and miss.

B    F#    G#    B
And it s a complicated life,
C#                                      E
When how you live is how you die.

G#                      D#                      B                      C#
Looks like your soul is connected to a wall.

E                                      B    D#
A photograph stands by the bed,
G#                      D#                      B                      C#
Of better times, when we crumbled with our spine,
E                                      F#
But lived the next day, and put the malice away.

B                                      F#
And that s when I noticed the drip,

G#                                      D#
Ignored the line that didn t skip.

B    F#    G#    B
It seemed the blue suburban sky

C#                                      E
Turned to grey, polluted night.

B                                      F#

So now you sleep inside the space.

G#

D#

A bed of roses, the thorns are placed.

B

F#

G#

B

C#

No more sleepless nights, just for me,

E

B

But as for you, the memory.
