Intro
Bm A G D Bm G A (x2)

Verse 1
Bm   A   D
I was a wandering bird,
Bm   A   G   D
I called away for it to save my soul.
Bm   A   D
You were a wandering bird,
       G   A   Bm   G
and nothing was wrong with killing our time and not killing ourselves.

Verse 2
Bm   A   D
Take me away to the west side of town,
              Bm   A   D   G
where we laid out our dresses and covered them down
            Bm   A   G   D
there was sky full of blue, and sky full of grey
        G   A   Bm   G
I was wondering how it could stay that way, I just walked away.

Pre-Chorus
G   D
Now is the time when the colors align and you lay in your bed dripping
 A   Bm
naked with sweat
        G   A   Bm   G
 D
and I call around for answers to come but its so fking hard when you G   D
donâ€™t know your done
G   D   A   Bm
its almost over but nothing is wrong

Chorus
Bm   D   A   D   G
  D
You were an avalanche, I was a city perched desperately close to the mountain.

Bm                            A              G              D              G
        D
You called out for water, and I gave you wine like a b*tch that I was A              D
and I called you mine.
  Bm                            A                            G
Its so hard to know when its over when its not begun.
          Bm
Your body is calling me, D              G                      A
I cant get right when Iâ€™m wrong,
                    G              D
but you are so beautiful.
              G              D
You are so beautiful,
              G        Bm A D
babe your so beautiful.
