

Oh Lord
Noel Gallagher

CHORDS USED:

E = 022100
E7 = 020100
C = x32010
G = 320003
C#/Dbmi = x46654
A = x02220

INTRO: E E7 (3x)

E                            C                            G                            E
Oh Lord! Is that you by the side of the road?
                          C                            G                            E
Still preaching the words of your code
                          C                            G                            E
As you jump up and down like a toad
                          C                            G                            E
You tried but you can t shoot your load

E E7 E E7

E                            C                            G                            E
Oh Lord! Is that you with your head in the sand?
                          C                            G                            E
In a world that you don t understand
                          C                            G                            E
Have you ruined your best laid plans
                          C                            G                            E
Could they just turn to shit in your hands

C#/Dbmi C G A (2x)
C D E E7 E E7

E                            C                            G                            E
Oh Lord! Is that you who is fading away?
                          C                            G                            E
Like the truth in the lies that they say
                          C                            G                            E
And the hair on your hands turns gray
                          C                            G                            E
You remind me of yesterday

(Melody of Yesterday by The Beatles in the end)