

A Girl In Port Okkervil River

[Intro]

A

[Chorus]

G D
Let fall your soft and swaying skirt
A Em
Let fall your shoes, let fall your shirt
G D
I m not the lady killing sort
A G D
Enough to hurt a girl in port

A Asus4 Asus2 A

[Verse 1]

G D
Marie s gone blonde and lost a stone
A Em
She lay on her lawn, spun and alone
G D
And, when the morning sun it rose
A Em
Upon Marie in her lacy clothes

[Verse 2]

G D
It lit her up, and she walked around
A Em
The winding streets of Camden Town
G D
She don t know who she wants to be
A G D
And if I knew, I d tell Marie

[Chorus]

G D
Let fall your soft and swaying skirt
A Em
Let fall your shoes, let fall your shirt
G D
I m not the lady killing sort
A G D
Enough to hurt a girl in port

A Asus2 A Asus2 A

[Verse 3]

G                                  D
And Cindy tells me she s had fun
                  A                                  Em
Sitting backstage, someone s plus one
                  G                                  D
Up in her room the records spin
                  A                                  Em
Needle in the grooves that she s worn thin

[Verse 4]

G                                  D
She lifts a sleeve and she sees a name
                  A                                  Em
And she s got a smile on her face
                  G                                  D
And she s got a story you can t see
                  A                                  G                  D
That s just between that name and Cindy

A Asus2 A Asus2 A

[Verse 5]

G                                  D
And before Holly made her way
                  A                                  Em
Over the sea and far away
                  G                                  D
She s telling me, inside her car
                  A                                  Em
Driving us back from the Crystal Corner bar

[Verse 6]

G                                  D
