

A Call To Arms For Hippies Olly The Octopus

G

It s the year 2009

D

And we are living in dangerous times

Em

We should learn from the hippies, and why the movement failed:

C

D

G

Hippies don t run for government and politicians don t inhale.

G

D

A long time ago in a time called the 60 s,

Em

C

D

G

People thought pop music was going to change the world.

G

They said things like All you need is love ,

D

Took the pregnancy pill, and whatever else they could get hold of,

Em

Bob Dylan went electric, Sgt Peppers was a hit

D

G

And people realised they could change the world if they gave a shit!

Em

D

But people got jaded when Vietnam was invaded,

G

D

Em

And Jimi, Janis and Morrison assassinated

C

By the C.I.A.

D

That was the day

G

The music died

G

Take me back to 1969

D

When changing the world meant a corny line

Em

Like Love Is You Need

Or smoking an ounce of weed

C

D

G

Or taking LSD at Woodstock

G

Now it s the year 2009

D

And again we re living in dangerous times

Em

We should learn from the hippies, and why the movement failed:

D

G

Hippies don t run for government and politicians don t inhale.

G

Now its forty years later.

D

Things have been greater.

Em

The sexual revolution left a fishy taste

D

G

Of teenage pregnancies in council estates.

G

And we ve still got war.

D

We ve still got famine.

Em

As opposed to getting out your head to The Grateful Dead

D

G

People do it now listening to Radiohead instead.

Em

But everyoneâ€™s still jaded.

D

Now Iraq s been invaded.

G

D

The Gaza strip s in Israel s grip,

Em

Even Syria has been raided.

C

Still we tow the line,

D

Maybe now s the time

D

G

To bring the music back to life.

G

Take me back to 1969

D

When changing the world meant a corny line

Em

Like Love Is You Need

Or smoking an ounce of weed

Em

Now everyoneâ€™s still jaded.

D

And the hippies have all traded

G

D

Em

Free love in for a stable job and like their bell bottoms they ve faded

C

How did it go this far.

D

Remember who you are,

D

G

And give the music C.P.R.
