Oh, Sister Sunshine
She stands before you wearing just a sparkle
On the silver ribbons shining in her hair
When all the colours get too loud

Just catch a failing leaf and chase the clouds
That drive away the cobwebs from your mind
Her smile can led you far astray
Though you will never lose your way â€™cause thereâ€™s always another day
In the sunshine
Calling Sister Sunshine
And as she sings your fears to sleep
With lullabies of ocean deepness
Cradled on her breast
Her thoughts within you seep
You listen to her fairy tales and lies
Youâ€™re just a prisoner in her eyes
But is she mad or wise youâ€™ll never know
