The way it always can (Bb G# G) Fm And she is mine G# But the world is much bigger now Oh tell me: C# Should I hold her hand, and give her love (Bb G# G)Fm С Or take her home and throw it far away? Oh and now is the time To jump into it all I ll just hold my note And try not to fall To seek and to find Stead of walking around With eyes glued to the sky I turn them down to the ground Oh and I used to think That maybe one day I d find the love of my life Oh but it s so far away Oh I don t know why Oh but I I want it all tonight And love is blind Falls in love with itself again Like it never should The way it always can And she is mine But the world is much bigger now Oh tell me: Should I hold her hand, and give her love Or take her home and throw it far away? We held hands and we looked out of the bedroom window. We could see all the buildings collapsing around us, so we kissed, and we laid on the bed, and we waited for the ceiling to fall in. But it never did. In the morning it was all still there: the spilled milk and the dog turds, in that grey ashtray morning light. I could hear thousands of people, and they were all singing this song: La na na na na

Hey butcher! Hey, butcher, what s your name? Oh hey butcher, what s your game? Oh you take all their love And you suck out their eyes And then you rip out their hearts And you eat their insides Yeah, then you just walk away With a smile on your face Hey butcher, hey butcher: I ve seen your face before

Oh, la Na na na na na na na na La na na na na na na na na...

And love is blind.
