This veil will hide my voice from you and I m not sure how I ll talk to you

I ll be speaking my truths

On this ocean I m rolling a wave away from you

For a ripple on the water I ll pray

You will lose my face even closing your eyes

I have gone from skin to earth to tree against the sky
Dadd9   Bm7   F#m/B   G/B
The storms may harm our blossom we call for the sun

```
        Dadd9                        Bm7                          D               A7 and though the rain still pours we know she ll come in good time

[Chorus]
    A1                      F#7/B                    Bm7/E    Bm7/F  Bm7/F#     Bm7/F

Oh silver lining you are hard to see when her face it fades away from me
        A1                      Bm7                                      D
but I know while she lies sleeping we are dreaming the same dreams

[Verse]
          D          A        D                        Bm7/F
For she is near me always telling me where to go
      D          A        D    D/G
she listens to my stories
      D              A            D                        Bm7/F
She has this funny notion that tears the tears from me
            D              A            D
but I will dry her pretty eyes one day
      Bm7/F          Bm7/G          Bm7                    Bm7/B
For a ripple on the water I ll pray
      Bm7/F              Bm7/G          F#7                    Bm7
And I know that I will find her by the tremors left behind her Bm7/F              A        Dadd9
for with each ripple on the water she prays
