Parakeet R.E.M.

G Bm E you wake up in the morning G Bm E and fall out of your bed G Bm E mean cat eat parakeets D C H and this one s nearly dead. G Bm E you dearly wish the wind shift G Bm E and greasy windows slide G Bm E open for the parakeet D C H who s colored bitter lime.

EmCopen the windowAmBmDand lift into your dreamsEmClately, babyAmDH7you can barely breathe.

G Bm E a broken wrist an accident G Bm E you know that something s wrong G Bm E you fold the leavings of your past Н D C no one knows you ve gone. G Bm E the sunspot flares of the early G Bm E nineties light up your wings. G Bm E and scan the shortwave radio D C H it s tracking outer rings.

Em C open your window AmBmDtolift into a dreamEmCbaby, babyAmDH7you can starts to breathe

G Bm E the tectonic dispatcher shifts Bm E G to smooth the ocean floor G Bm E and flattens out to warmer winds D C H of Brisbane s sunny shore. G Bm E where buddhas tend to mending wrists G Bm E a tea made from the leaves G Bm E of eucalyptus fragrances D C H and coriander seeds. Em C open the window Am Bm D to lift into a dream Em C baby, baby Am Bm D you can starts to breathe. Em C open your window Am Bm D to lift into a dream Em C baby, baby Am D H7 you can starts to breathe G Bm E you wake up in the morning G Bm E to warm Pacific breeze G Bm E where mean cars chew on licorice D C G#m and cannot climb the trees.