

Turn around, don't whisper out my name
 For like a breeze, it'd stir a dying flame
 I'll miss someone, if it eases you to know
 So close the door lightly when you go
 Who was the one that stole my mind?
 Who was the one that robbed my time?
 Who was the one who made me feel unkind?
 So fare thee well, sweet love of mine
 Take your tears to someone else's eyes
 They're made of glass
 And are cut like wounded lies
 Memories are drifting like the snow
 But close the door lightly when you go
 (Refrão)
 Don't look back to where you once had been
 Look straight ahead
 When you're walking through the rain
 And find a light
 If the path gets dark and cold
 But close the door lightly when you go
 But close the door lightly when you go
 But close the door lightly when you go
