

Cold Kisses

Richard Thompson

Em

Here I am in your room going through your stuff.

G/F# G D Em

Said you'd be gone five minutes, that's time enough.

Em

Here in your drawer there's lacy things;

G/F# G D Em

Old credit cards, beads, bangles and rings.

Am G

But I think I've found what I'm looking for

Am G

Hidden away at the back of the drawer;

G/F# Em

Here's the life that you led before.

Em

Old photographs of the life you led,

G/F# G D Em

Arm in arm with Mr X, Y and Z.

Old boyfriends, big and small;

G/F# G D Em

Got to see how I measure up to them all.

Bm A A/G

There is a place we all must start, love.

Bm A G Em

Who were you holding in that fond embrace?

Bm A A/G

I've found a door into your heart, love,

Em D C Em
And do you still feel the warmth of Cold Kisses?

Em
Here I am behind enemy lines
G/F# G D Em
Looking for secrets, looking for signs.
Em
Old boyfriends big and small,
G/F# G D Em
Got to see how I measure up to them all.
Am G
This one s handsome, not too bright;
Am G
This one s clever with his hands alright,
G/F# Em
Tougher than me if it came to a fight.
Am G
This one s a poet, bit of a wet,
Am G
A bit of a gypsy, a bit of a threat.
G/F# Em
I wonder if she s got over him yet

Bm A A/G
Old passions frozen in the second;
Bm A G Em
Who were you holding in that fond embrace?
Bm A A/G
Hearts have a past that must be reckoned,
Em D C Em
And do you still feel the warmth of cold kisses?

Em
Time to put the past away,
G/F# G D Em
That s your footstep in the street I d say.
Em
Tie the ribbon back around it,
G/F# G D Em
Everything just the way I found it.
Am G
I can hear you turn the key
Am G
And my head s buried when you see me
G/F# Em
In a Margaret Millar mystery.

Em D C Em
And do you still feel the warmth of Cold Kisses?
Em D C Em
Do you still feel the warmth of Cold Kisses?

SECOND VERSION

From: Noam Newman

This time I m not going to print out the words, but it should be easy to figure out where the changes come.
