Latter Day Nights Ricochet

www.ricochet.com USA Here it is, I m pretty sure this is how it goes: (vs1) G# Bbm I knew an old man who kept to himself G# He lived all alone C# G# F# Bbm He spent every day, in his boat C# G# F# On a pond behind his home ______ (continue chord progression) One day the old man asked me to join him on his boat And help him break his bread I asked him why he was what he was And this is what he said _____ (bridge) Said to me, look into my eyes Don t let your love leave you nigh Don t let life pass you by tonight And don t be afraid to fly F#dim G# Ebm Bbm G# _____ (chorus) G# F#dim Sing to the stones of latter day nights Bbm G# Let the river of life wash away the tears G# Feim Don t let love pass you by tonight Ebm BbmLatter day nights sing to the stones _____ (vs2: same chords as vs1) And as I gazed into the pools that were his ancient eyes A tear rolled down his cheek, the old man began to cry What i ve done, what i ve done, what i ve done is nothing at all What i ve done, what i ve done, what i ve done is nothing at all Son listen to me let me teach you a thing or two Open your eyes, how it turns out in the end is up to you Keep your eyes on the light keep walking forward Never look back and look em straight in the eye

Life is the greatest adventure of them all

Thats pretty much it, these guys are pretty new but ther re really good, enjoy!
