Accidntel Deth Rilo Kiley

[Verse] you re obsessed with finding a new brain but what you need is a new body it feels your brain has lived a thousand lives before and the skin you call your home holds a heart that quits and knees that buckle in and lungs that can t breathe when they re alone and the days come to you like sailors you watch them as they drift away D they meet the sunrise out at the horizon [Chorus] and it s neither sink nor swim at least the water s beneath your chin. [Verse] there s blood spilled on the floor everyone s staring at you, what for? until you realize the blood is probably yours you feel you ve lost something, you want it back you lie emotionless on your back and your legs aren t taking anymore requests those disobedient wrecks how you cared for them as they carried you from class to class and coast to coast

[Chorus]
when you owned land and when you were broke through recessions and addictions [Bridge]
it s just your accidental death
your accidental death
it s just your accidental death
you re the indian in the cougar s nest.
[Verse]
your fright gives way to memory have them cough you with your love or the story your father told you long ago he was hunting with his own father for deer he pointed and spotted her and then tripped over some roots or some dead trees the gun went off, it was a mistake and my father was only eight and as he watched the dying deer, he was changed.
[Chorus]
 cause he felt sorry for what he d done and he put down his gun will you feel sorry for what you ve done?
will you put down your gun?
cause there s no accidental death
                   D

when you re the indian in the cougar s nest
