Broken Arrow
Rod Stewart

Broken arrow covered by Rod Stewart... Ok hereâ€™s how i think this is played hope
it comes out ok the 0 represents an open strum and i add a Harmonic on the 12
fret once or twice for effect represented by the H.......

G                              C
Who else is gonna bring you a broken arrow
G                              C
Who else is gonna bring you a bottle of rain
    Am                             C
There he goes     moving across the water
G                   F         C           G
There he goes     turning my whole world around

G              C.....

G                        C
Do you feel what I feel
C                G                   C
Can we make it      part of the deal
G                              Em7
I gotta hold you in these arms      of steel
Em                  Em7                 Em            0 /   C
Lay  your heart on the line              this  time

G                              C
I wanna breathe when you breathe
C                    G          C
When you whisper like that summer breeze
G                        Em7
See the  sweat that covers me
Em                  Em7       Em  o/ C
show me a sign this time

G                              C
Who else is gonna bring you a broken arrow
G                        C
Who else is gonna bring you a bottle of rain
    Am                         C
There he goes     moving across the water
G              F         C           G
There he goes   turning my whole world around

G              C

 G                              C
```

Ah can you see what I see
C                        G      C
Can you cut behind the mystery
G                        Em7
meet me by the witness tree
Em 7                       Em               Em o  H  C
Leave the whole world behind   this time
G                   C
I will come when you call
C                G        C
even if I have to crawl
G                        Em7
They cant hold me with these iron walls
Em                         Em        o/C
We got mountains to climb,  to climb

G                            C
Who else is gonna bring you a broken arrow
G                            C
Who else is gonna bring you a bottle of rain
 Am                            C
There he goes    moving across the water
G                 F              C      G
There he goes    turning my whole world around

F          C           G
 turning my whole world around
F          C           G
 turning my whole world around
F        C           G
 turning my whole world around
