I am a man of constant sorrow,
                       C#
I ve seen trouble all my days
                  B
I ll say goodbye to Colorado,
                        C#
where I was born and prob ly raised

                  B
Your mother says I am a stranger,
                     C#
my face you ll never see no more
                 B
But there s one promise darling,
                    C#
I ll see you on God s golden shore

                                  B
Through this open world I m about to ramble,
                C#
dry snow, sleet and rain
                       B
I am about to rob the mornin railroad,
                  C#
perhaps I ll die on that train

                  B
I m goin back to Colorado,
               C# place that I started from
                    B
If I d knowed how bad you d treat me,
               C# honey, I never would have come
