

Vulnerable
Sarah Jaffe

*The pattern for the whole song is C-G-D-D. they are played as power chords with the middle finger down on the string below it.I forget what that shape is called.

*The C chord is played on the E-string not the A-String.

* After the first chorus she plays regular chords. not power chords. then the next verse

she switches back to power chords

*the strum pattern is mostly just a down strum 8 ties for each chord. you can get creative and add some up strums wherever you feel fits

*I just copied what sarah jaffe did in her video:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ycaPEThQkTw>

* this is my first tab so bare with me

**/

C

you re such a baby

G

it s just a nose bleed

D

leave me for a while

D

so you can go and cry

C

didn t I say that

G

you make it up

D

twist my words around

D

flip them upside down

C

you cannot stay here

G

you must go home

D

it s nearly 3 o clock

D

and now I m seeing spots

C G D
wake me up just to call me

D
sleeping beauty

C
oh fine

G
that s fine

D
I got my hands up

D
I m feeling vulnerable

*(this is the part where she swithes to I guess open chords rather than power chords)

C
one more message

G
it could not hold

D
so you go to option B

D drive 20 miles to see me at my worst C

G
and off to work

D
think of random things to say

D
then leave me for the day

(now bac to power chords)

C G D
wake me up just to call me

D
sleeping beauty

C
oh fine

G
that s fine

D
I got my hands up

D
I m feeling vulnerable

c
all your theories

G
on why I am

D
so complex all the time

D

you try to pick my mind

C

but what about you

G

you re so vague

D

and everything you tell

D

is what keeps me coming back

C G D

wake me up just to call me

D

sleeping beauty

C

oh fine

G

that s fine

D

I got my hands up

D

I m feeling vulnerable

ENJOY AND GOODLUCK!
