

Time

Sarah McLachlan

My dad and I figured this out from looking at a version we found that didn't use a Capo.

However, it is obvious that Sarah uses a capo on the 3rd fret when she plays this song.

I'm sure it's not perfect, but it's close, and you can play with it if you want.

But

it's a very good start.

CAPO ON 3RD FRET!!

VERSE1

Em

Time here

C

All but means nothing

Em

G

just shadows that move cross the wall.

Em

C

They keep me company, but they don't ask of me,

Em

C

they don't say nothin' at all.

INTERLUDE

D

F

I need just a little more silence

D

F

And I need just a little more time

VERSE2

Em

G

C

G

You send your thieves to me, silently stalking me

Em

C

dragging me into your war.

Would you give me no choice in this? I know you can't resist, trying to re-open a sore.

CHORUS

Leave me be, I don't want to argue

I'd just get confused, and I'd come all undone

And if I agree, well it's just to appease you

Cause I don't remember, what we're fighting for.

VERSE3

You see love,
A tight thorny thread that you spin in a circle of gold.
You have me to hold me, a token for all to see captured to be yours alone.

I need just a little more silence
I need just a little more time

VERSE4

The courage to pull away
there will be hell to pay
The deeper you cut to the bone

CHORUS

SOLO

D, Am
D, Am
D, Am
C, C

VERSE1(again)

CHORUS

End with: G Em C G x2
