

Fall

Sean Pratt

C            C                    F                    F
              Headed for the East coast, I know.

F                            F                            C
Ya man, I heard, I know, it s so cold.(?)

C                            F                            F
                          Living in a window, I see,

F                            F                            C
I see some things, maybe, I dont know.

C7                    E7                    E                    F
                          But if you fall, and I know you will,

                          E7                    E                    F                    F
you will call, and I will still, runnnnnnnnn.

C            C                    F                    F
              Living in the winter, with the pine trees,

F                            F                            C
I can match the deadlies, and go home.

C                            F                            F
                          Living in a tower, in the city,

F                            F                            C
drinking whiskey, on my own.

C7                    E7                    E                    F
                          but if you fall, and I know you will,

                          E7                    E                    F                    F
you will call, and I will still, runnnnnnnnn.

C C7 E7 E F E7 E F F

<http://hearnebraska.org/content/sean-pratt>

<http://seanpratt.bandcamp.com/>