B Bmaj7 B7

I see you gracefully swimming with the country club women in the Greenwood southside society pool.

E C#m B

A. 1

I love your amethyst eyes and your protestant thighs

3 F#

you re a shimmering socialite jewel.

B Bmaj7 B7

From the Carbon Dioxide Riding Academy

E B C#m B

to the children s crusade marching through the downtown.

A E

Well I think I d die see, if you just said hi to me.

B Fi

When something breaks it makes a beautiful sound.

Е

Sometimes I feel like I m watching the world and the world isn t watching me back. But when I see you, I know I m in it too.

В

The waves come in and the waves go back.

Е

The kids in the corner all covered in dirt.

Caught trespassing under the moon.

My father came in from wherever he d been

В

and kicked my shit all over the room.

Α

All over the room

Е

All over the room.

[Instrumental]

B Ebm* A Am E

E Ebm*

The room is dark and heavy with what I want to say.

A

I see murals in the radio static and on your blue blue jeans.

B*

Ebm*

What would you say if I asked you to run away?

E

It s been done so many times I hardly know what it means.

E Ebm*

 $\ensuremath{\mathsf{I}}$  took these blue arrangements and threw them in the sea when older waves from older caves brought them back to me.

B* Ebm*

I took these blue arrangements and stored them on a shelf.

Α

With change on the mantle and time in a candle,

Ε

in the end a boy raises himself.
