

Shout To The Lord
Sonicflood

A                    F#                    D                    E
shout to the Lord, all the earth let us sing
A                    F#                    D                    E
power and majesty, praise to the king
F#                    E                    D                    E                    D                    Esus E7 mountains bow down and the seas will roar at the sound of your name
A                    F#                    D                    E
I will rejoice at the song of your hands
A                    F#                    D                    E
forever I love you, forever I ll stand F#                    E                    D                    E                    A nothing compares to the promise i have in you
