This song was written by Soraya in 1993 and published on her first album on nights like this (1996), produced by Rod Argent and Peter Van Hooke.
I put the mandolin's melody to guitar-tabulature.
The bars above the notation stand for approximate major beats.
By the way... can't figure it out what the guitar really plays during the chorus
- somebody ask Mitch Dalton (the player on the cd!!) Play it anyway like this:

SUDDENLY (Soraya)

verse: (repeat almost endlessly)

a thousand eyes looking at me
F#m	E	A
but yours is the look that goes right through me and i
F#m	E	A
cannot hide from your stare
F#m	E	A
should i let you in - do i dare
F#m	E	A
some other hands have tried before
F#m	E	A
but yours is the touch that makes me want more
F#m	E	A
cannot hide the urgency
F#m	E	A

to have you lying here with me because

Chorus

A E D(add9)
suddenly in my life
 A E D(add9)
there's something that's got me mystified and i A E D(add9) A E D(add9) cannot fight it but i can try to keep the wonder of it alive

a thousand words have tried to say but yours are the ones that'll never fade away and i cannot hide from their sound i am mesmerized spinning round and round and some other hearts have tried to steal mine yours is the one that i now hold dear i'll do what it takes to keep you here i'm a selfish fool but i have no fear

Chorus

Mandolin-Solo: (those underlined play with mandolin-effect) a thousand times i've tried to stay alone by pushing you away time after time and tear after tear i find myself back her with you a thousand visions have come to me all promising serenity

as i struggle to find the source of this peace i always end up with your kiss

2x Chorus

Solo ad lib.
