Yesterday
Staind

Introdução: Am C G D

```
Am                              C
You don t know what you ve put me through
G           D
It s okay, I ve forgiven you
Am                    C
But in some way, hope it fucks with you
G                                     D
Hope it fucks with you
Am                        C                   G
That I m okay and I ve made it through
                     D
But who s to say
                                    Am
What you re going through
        C
I say no names
                              G
Though I ve wanted to
                              D
Isn t it strange how it seems like...

Am    C     G       D                         Am
Yes-ter-day, a boy and already afraid
                    C                             G
Locked deep inside, my place to hide
      D                                   Am
To hide from how you made me feel
        C                           G
And I wonder how s your brother
          D                     Am
Did he end up fucked up like me?
              C                         G
Lost in himself, crying for help
              D
It s safe to say
```

Am C G D

```
Am               C
I learned to live without a pride
G               D
Just a shell, with me stuck inside
Am            C
A prison, not a place to hide
  G                             D
```

```
Not a place to hide
Am            C
But I m okay and I ve made it through
G                    D
But who s to say
What you re going through
Am            C
I say no names
                              G
Though I ve wanted to
                                      D
Isn t it strange how it seems like...

Am    C    G        D                    Am
Yes-ter-day, a boy and already afraid
                    C                          G
Locked deep inside, my place to hide
D                                          Am
To hide from how you made me feel
              C                      G
And I wonder how s your brother
 D                                        Am
Did he end up fucked up like me?
        C                          G
Lost in himself, crying for help
          D
It s safe to say

Am C G D 2x

Am    C    G            D              Am
Ye- ter-day, a boy and already afraid
                    C                              G
Locked deep inside, my place to hide
        D                                  Am
To hide from how you made me feel
              C                      G
And I wonder how s your brother
          D                              Am
Did he finally pull through like me?
                  C                          G
Finding himself, not needing help
          D
I d like to say

Am C G D
```