

The Right One
Stellar Kart

Tabbed by: Bethany Harb

D                            G                            A
it s time to say goodbye
D                            G                            A
mistreated one too many times
D                            G                            A
mistakes that I have made
along with these tears will fade

G   A   G   A
away in time
G   A            G   A
someday I ll find

D
the right one
                  G                            A
my own shooting star
                                  D
that someone G                            A
who won t break my heart
G                            D                            G                            A
I ll wait forever until we meet
                                  G                            D
you re one in a million
G                            A                            D
the right one for me

it s time to start again
pick up the pieces and begin I don t need anyone to tell me what I should become

I want more
I m still waiting for
