So when the smoke and the fire of another attack slowly drift away

D C G
Can anyone seem to find the appropriate words to say?

G C G
When the pain of loss and sudden change conjure family strife

D C G
Is there any hope at all for a return to normal life?

G C G D C G

G C G
Is there solace in condolence or just deeper pain dug up?

D C G
The sad truth is victims families have nothing to look forward to

G C G
And I'm sick of picking up the Boston Globe and seeing painful days of loss

D C G
Question everything without apology about the horror and the cost

D C G
Shards of life are left behind, no easier, kinder path to find

D C G
With a loss so bitter, so incomplete, with its hopes and plans crash in defeat

G C G
And hope is a foggy and distant memory no hope for normalcy

D C G
Cling close to the legacy of loss and shards of life, of life
