And all her lavender meadows so fragrant and beautiful
And at your dining room table the sun falls on my face so warm
And all the turbulent highways I ve taken to get here
To you in this home, in this moment, for that I am grateful

Though this house feels like an old lost song
That calls for me to play along
Somehow I don t belong

Verse 3: (use verse 1 chords)

Her soul could have only been born of a wild oak
So far reaching and swaying and free but stands stoically alone
When the skies come apart she leans over so helpless and cowering
Until the storms come to cease and somehow she s the only one standing

Chorus 3: (use chorus 1 chords)

And though we ve grown so close my love
And though these nights we ve spent so many of
A part of me is numb

Bridge Chords:

Her eyes look up to me, so open and true
Our window s in perfect clear view
But somehow I can t see through

Outro: [D G5] x4 w/ intro riff
