The Cirus
Take That

The ones already submitted by users are not correct, so here is mine which I believe is 100% correct.

As the song is based around the piano you may not be happy with strumming every chord. If you want to pick, pick the lowest note of each chord with you thumb, and then use your index and middle fingers for picking two other strings. The whole song is pretty much based around playing three strings, although those three strings differ through the song.

For example, the first chord [Em], pick the A string with your thumb, and then the D & G strings together with you index & middle fingers.
You will get the idea as you learn the song.

The note in the song that I have written 2,3,4 open, means the B,G&D strings, again, picking the D string with your thumb and the G&B strings together with your fingers.
