

Just a name and a number

Stuck in the same scene

Here in California we re all

All nightmares and daydreams

She said I got money, but I got no friends

As we drove through the valley in her daddy s Benz

I never thought it would matter so much to pretend

And the thing about her that haunts me still

As her hands fell down to the steering wheel

And a shock of light fell across her face

She said these pills wear off, but the pain don t end

A face on a tumbler

Oh, I hope it s clear
There s no room for us anymore in the atmosphere
But darling I always liked
The desperation in your eyes
                                     F
The way you dance in the glow of the Hollywood freeway lights
Someday they re gonna forget about us
And we ll wonder if we were ever good enough
It hit me last night, in this song I heard
I remember the feeling but forget all the words

Here in California I was
