Disappearing out of sight along the open road

Into indistinct horizons - they had no time to reload

All through nebulae I was racing in my mind

E(Eb) E(C#) E(B)
You fly so high yeah and you move so fast
You re running blindly from the past

Bm A
Oh changing all the time
E
Looking through these hollow eyes across the great unknown

                                             F#m
Growing greater every second, growing harder with each stone
                                  В
Yeah and you who judge your freedom by the quantity you score

                                           F#m
Would it make you any freer if you took a little more?
C#m
All that summertime I revolved around your eye

In accelerating spirals in an asymetric sky
