

Chi-Town
The Cribs

Taken from their forth-coming album In The Belly of The Brazen Bull, I ve just had a quick stab at the chords for this- it sounds about ok to me!

I ve put the chords as open, but I m pretty sure they re played as power chords or barre chords.

The G bits in the verse are just two very quick hits of the G chord. Pretty simple really- I prefer to play them as power chords, G5, C5, A5 etc, but you may prefer barred or open.

You know the one,

C G

we were always there.

A few notes are played to finish (on the D string, 10th fret) C, B, Bb, and then feedback to end with.

Hope this helps- I can play the solo, but not 100%. I m sure some of the better players on here may want to do that part better than I can, so I ll leave that to you!
