He bid a long farewell to all of his friends,
He said I m leaving town and I hope to begin
Something up north where the wind blows cold
I ll be up there until I grow old.

All he had to his name was a suit case in hand
Five whole dollars and no place to land
Two shells in his rifle and a knife in his sack
He found a women that before he did lack.

Her name was Virginia, she came from the west
She took a train up from Baker to start something fresh
North Colorado she thought was the best
South California never stood the test.

They went for a stroll down Muddy Creek
Virginia sat down before she did speak
She said I can t go on with you no more
You have become such a bore.

He plunged a knife in her stomach and grabbed her feet
And threw her into the waters so deep
Now he s sitting in a cell and he s oh so cold
He s gonna be there until he grows old.
