

Seven Deadly Sins The Dubliners

Seven Deadly sins - Dubliners

This is my version of seven deadly sins that I have worked out by ear.
This may not be %100 correct but its how I play it.

Capo 2nd fret (or transpose 2 up and play in A)

G

Some say that kissin s a sin

Em

But tell me how can that be true

G

For kissing has been in this world

D

G

Since the very first day there was two

G

D

Now if it wasn t legal then the lawyers they would sue

F

C

And the prisons would be full of folk who had a kiss or two

G

And if they didn t like it then away the girls would run

D

G

And if it wasn t plenty then the poor folk would get none

G

Some say that gamblin s a sin

Em

But I ll bet you fifteen to one

G

That gambling has been in this world

D

G

Since horses and greyhounds could run

G

D

Now if it wasn t legal then the lawyers they would sue

F

C

And the prisons would be full of folk who had a bet or two

G

And if they didn t like it then away the girls would run

D

G

And if it wasn t plenty then the poor folk would get none

G

Some say that swearin s a sin

Em

But where is the man that can tell

G

For swearing has been in this world

D

G

Since the Devil was told go to hell

G

D

Now if it wasn t legal then the lawyers they would sue

F

C

And the prisons would be full of folk who had a curse or two

G

And if they didn t like it then away the girls would run

D

G

And if it wasn t plenty then the poor folk would get none

G

Some say that smokin s a sin

Em

And a pipe now and then is enough

G

But smoking has been in this world

D

G

Since Adam taught Eve how to puff

G

D

Now if it wasn t legal then the lawyers they would sue

F

C

And the prisons would be full of folk who had a smoke or two

G

And if they didn t like it then away the girls would run

D

G

And if it wasn t plenty then the poor folk would get none

G

Some say that drinkin s a sin

Em

But a gargle is fine now and then

G

For drinking has been in this world

D

G

For ever and ever, Amen

G

D

Now if it wasn t legal then the lawyers they would sue

F

C

And the prisons would be full of folk who had a drink or two

G

And if they didn't like it then away the girls would run

D

G

And if it wasn't plenty then the poor folk would get none
