

Zor And Zam
The Monkees

I could only find one tab of this song, and it was all jumbled in the html. Here it is as I understand it. There are at least two versions of this song, but this tab should help you figure out whichever one you want to work with.

For the E m6 add9, just play 044000 and slide the Em around with no bar. It doesn't feel like it should work, but it does.

Zor & Zam

Em                    D    G                    A
The King of Zor, he called for war
Em                    D                    A    B
And the King of Zam, he answered
Em                    D                    G                    A
They fashioned their weapons, one upon one
C                    D
Ton upon ton
A                    B                    D                    Em
They called for war at the rise of the sun.

Em                    D    G                    A
Out went the call, to one and to all
Em                    D                    A    B
That echoed and rolled like the thunder
Em                    D    G                    A
Trumpets and drums, roar upon roar,
C                    D
More upon more
A                    B                    D                    Em
Rolling the call of come now to war.
Em            E m6 add9    Em            open            Em

Em                    D                    G                    A
Throughout the night, they fashioned their might
Em                    D                    A    B
With right on the side of the mighty
Em                    D    G                    A
They puzzled their minds, plan upon plan
C                    D
Man upon man
A                    B                    D                    Em
In the dying of dawn, the Great War began.

Em            E m6 add9    Em            open            Em

Em                            D                            G                            A
They met on the battlefield, banner in hand

Em                            D                            A                            B
They looked out across the vacant land

Em    D                            G                            A
and they counted the missing, one upon one
C                            D

None upon none

A    B                            D                            Em
The war, it was over before it begun

G                            A                            C                            D
Two little kings, playing a game

A                            B                            D
They gave a war, and nobody

Em            E m6 add9    Em            open            Em
came.    And nobody

Em            E m6 add9    Em            open            Em
came.    And nobody

came.    And nobody

came.                    Nobody

came.
