Question marks in the dark making hard to start always, never knowing suddenly I can see how the path lies for me, it s time to get going I perceive your concern And I try to relate you say I should be staying
You resist and insist telling me to beware
Like you ve already been there
No matter what you say, I m on my way
No matter what you say, I ll do it anyway
I say to each his own when all s told it is wrong, Not to recognize this I m aware of your advice, really do understand I hear what you re saying
No more misunderstanding I won t be caught demanding for your rassurance cause it has no consequence
