

Nobody

The Replacements

Notes: I play this tune with a capo on the second fret. Maybe it s cheating; I dunno if Paul uses one or not, having never seen the song performed live. But it makes the chords easier, and if you wanna sing it a little easier on your voice, you can just loose the capo. Calling any attempt to tab the intro pure speculation would be a compliment, so it s just chords here.

For the chorus, take a regular Am and drop your pinky finger up and down on the third fret of the high-e string where it s marked Am*.

All chord names refer to the shape - obviously with the capo, they re all actually a full-step higher.
