Lyrics:

you felt bitter about it all some invisible rhythm held you til the dawn, not sleeping scattering words around your head and you remember every word I said you gather up your eyes into a spark when you blink back a tear with the strength of striking iron

when you blink back a tear somehow feeling not at home
when you blink back a tear
and pull your head back from the phone you were soft then like a moth then hairs appeared on your skin to keep the warmth in, not eating scattering words around your head
