Verse 1:

A E B E
Underneath a big clock at the corner of 5th Avenue and 22nd Street
A G#m G B
I stood and waiting for a girl I knew at the spot where we agreed to meet
F# B
It was four minutes of two

Chorus:

E B E
At four of two, I stood waiting for the girl
E B E
I was four minutes early for the date we had planned
A G#m B
I was planning to say I was in love with her
E B E A
Just as soon as she showed for a two o clock date
E B E
And the clock said four of two

Chorus:

At four of two, I was staring into space
She was not yet late, according to the clock
I was feeling nervous so I kept looking up
At the clock sticking out of the side of the building
And it still said four of two

Chorus:

At four of two, I began to feel tired
And I rubbed my eyes, and again I checked the time
It seemed as if the sky was growing dark...
But I felt reassured when I looked at the clock
And it still said four of two

Verse 2:

I lay my head down on the sidewalk so in case she were coming I would have a better view
But no one was there so I stretched out and closed my eyes for a second or two
It was four minutes of two

Chorus:

At once I awoke to a futuristic world

There were flying cars and gigantic metal bugs

I'd grown a beard; it was long and white

But I knew that the girl would be coming very soon
