Blood Flower Tilly and the Wall BLOOD FLOWER - Tilly & The Wall Tabbed by: Taylor Harris Email:jtaylorharris@yahoo.com The chorus repeats multiple times at the end. The progression doesn t change so I didn t bother copying and pasting the same words over and over. Sorry. Tuning: Αm I buried my blood years ago to encourage the vine I waited for something to grow and flourish with time Am I counted each hopeful raindrop as it fell to its death I dusted the mournful frost and warmed it up with my breath Am You d better watch where you re walking There might be somebody s blood flower growing You d better watch what you re doing Don t go fucking around in the garden Am You d better watch where you re walking You d better watch what you re doing Am You d better watch where you re walking You d better watch what you re doing Am On the night of the hunter s moon you might notice a quiet dread Are your eyes playing tricks on you? Yeah, maybe it s in your head Every day a little more unsettled, you are starting to understand

You re sleeping with the lights on, with no one to hold your hand

```
Αm
  You d better watch where you re walking
 You d better watch what you re doing
 You d better watch where you re walking
 You d better watch what you re doing
Am
 You d better watch where you re walking, where you re walking
 You d better watch what you re doing
(Just keyboards here)
 You d better watch where you re walking
There might be somebody s blood flower growing
(Everything kicks back in)
 You d better watch what you re doing
Don t go fucking around in the garden
Am
 You d better watch where you re walking
There might be somebody s blood flower growing
 You d better watch what you re doing
Don t go fucking around in the garden
 You d better watch where you re walking
There might be somebody s blood flower growing
```
