Dontcha take it too bad, if you re feelin unlovin

F7

Bb

If you re feelin unfeelin , if you re feelin alone.

Eb

Dontcha take it too bad, cause it ain t you to blame babe,

Bb F'

It s only a game made, out of all of this livin

Bb Eb Bb

That we got left to do.

And if you go searchin for rhyme or for reason

Then we won t have the time that it takes just for talkin

About the places you ve been babe

About the faces you ve seen babe

And how soft the time flies, past your window at night.

And we just can t have that girl
Cause it s a sad lonesome cold world
And a man needs a woman to stand by his side
And whisper sweet words in his ears about daydreams
And roses and playthings
And the sweetness of springtime
And the sound of the rain.

Don t you take it too bad, cause it ain t you to blame, babe well it s some kind of game, babe, out of all of this living, that we ve got left to do.

Bb

Aw if you go searchin, for rhyme or for reason well then you won t have the time that it takes just for talkin about the places you ve been, babe, and the faces you ve seen, babe and how soft the time flies past your window at night.

And we just can t have that girl, cause it s a hard lonesome cold world and a man needs a woman to stand by his side and whisper sweet words in his ears about daydreams and roses and playthings, and the sweetness of springtime and the sound of the rain.
