All You Had Tyla J Pallas

ALL YOU HAD (Tyla)

C Am F G (through the entire song except where noted)

You pawned your heart to a girl on the west side You kissed her face, took her hand, made her your bride It all went wrong in a spiral nightmare There s nothing left except to stand in the mirror and stare

All you had, it all got wasted The bitter fruit, it all got tasted No longer friends, just the language of lovers lost You got caught and now you pay the cost

Sitting by the phone that never seems to ring no more Looking at your past spread out before you on the floor Your courting days like minutes on your clock of hope You dial the number that brings you all there is to smoke

All you had, it all got wasted The bitter fruit, it all got tasted No longer friends, just the language of lovers lost You got caught and now you pay the cost

It s a shame that your lives got in the way

Dreams were conversation fillers just for a day

That s all to say

All you had, it all got wasted The bitter fruit, it all got tasted No longer friends, just the language of lovers lost You got caught and now you pay the cost

La, la, la...

It s not much to ask in these fast unfeeling times

Being in love always seems to to be some kind of unwritten crime

Unwritten crime

All you had, it all got wasted

The bitter fruit, it all got tasted

No longer friends, just the language of lovers lost

You got caught and now you pay the cost

La, la, la...

All you had, it all got wasted The bitter fruit, it all got tasted No longer friends, just the language of lovers lost You got caught and now you pay the cost

La, la, la...
