LAMENT OF NIGHT
(Tyla)

[Em Am D B7]

Jackie bought the horse from a shadow in the city he caught the subway to the darker side of the town in the neon all the evil look so pretty he rank stoly on the rocks lit a cigarette as he get down he rode a horse with a stranger that blew in from his past he lost sight of the danger it thought it had past they walked the bitter street the darkness hit she dissappeared in the streetlife bit the body rolled the possessions flowed like wine the pulse rate lour the pupils undefined

(duplicate rythm)
All alone, all alone in New York city

Out the shadows a voice did call, streetlife scattered gold n all this guys dyin from an overdose the angels are near, death is close the voice sent a message to the nearest drugstore we need some ice the sirens screamed the medics came and that s all I remember till I saw her face

(duplicate rythm)
All alone, all alone in New York city

[Em D C B7]
(low, talking)
Another icon rises to the stants of legend all the madness that seems to tag along with faine just becomer another sad ending in a never ending game

[solo (Em Pentatonic)]

All alone, all alone in New York city...
