E cis A
I don t believe the darkness can come too soon,
E cis A
I don t believe the sadness in this room.
E cis A
If life was a film, your film would have no score.
E cis A
Was the sun of it all the loose change wich lay on your floor?
E H cis A
When the sun sets low and shadows long to grow,
E H A
Like a twist of hope leading you home.

E H cis A
Cos your stars never shine, like they do in summer time,
E H A
If this is all you ve got, I don t want to know.

E cis A
I don t believe sleepwalking gets trough.
E cis A
I don t believe misery sticks like glue.
E H cis A
All your streams run cold, temptation takes a hold,
E H A
Like a thread of hope leading you home.

E H cis A
Cos your stars never shine, like they do in summer time,
E H A
If this is all you ve got, I don t want to know.

E H cis A
Cos your stars never shine, like they do in summer time,
E H A
And providence conspired to rain on your show.
E A E A
So cold and fateful, so cruel and hateful,
E H cis A
Scattered on the wind five thousand miles from home.

E H cis A
Cos your stars never shined, like they should in summer time,
E H A
And providence conspired to rain on your show.
E H cis A
Cos your stars never shined, like they should in summer time,
E H A
If this is all you ve got, I don t want to know.
