The old man turned and scratched his chin.
He said, Son, I wouldn't know where to begin,
But you're daddy's gone, he's gone down South.
It was all he would talk about.

We never blamed it on the soil,
Or the sunburned earth
Or the prices of the oil.
This bordertown is my home.
I got rattlesnake guts,
In a desert full of bones.

Tell my sister I've gone and to find someone,
Cause I won't come back no more. No more.

B           F#           E           B
Lord I see red and it's storming in my head
           B           F#           G#m           Ebm
I got cathedrals in my ears and I think my Daddy's dead
B           F#           E           B
Lord I see red and I'm prayin' on my bed
           B           F#
I got a drunk for a mother
           G#m           Ebm

Got a saint for a brother

Now the sun is shinin on my hood
The statue on the dashboard
Of Maria looks beautiful,
And I m headin down south
I got tequila in my veins
And the devil in my mouth,

Tell my sister I ve gone
And to find someone
Cause I won t comeback no more...
No more

B F# E B
Lord I see red and it s storming in my head
B F# G#m Ebm
I got cathedrals in my ears and I think my Daddy s dead
B F# E B
Lord I see red and I m prayin on my bed
B F#
I got a drunk for a mother
G#m Ebm
Got a saint for a brother

Ebm G#m
But hey it s alright
B F#
I got jukebox tears and stones for eyes
Ebm G#m
Hey it s alright
B
I got jukebox tears
F#
Under turquoise skies...
Hey.

So now I got hell on my trail
It took some demons to get even
No my demons are countin rosaries
We never blamed it on the soil
Or the sun scorched earth
Where the desert meets the sky

Tell my sister I ve gone and to find someone
Cause I won t come back no more...
No more.
