When the sun shines on the wrong side of town The worms sing softly to the birds And the women with their bruises Polish the weapon he uses

Cause dirt and grime will spread the disease around

VERSE 3

When the sun shines on the wrong side of town My enemies are praised for their crimes And the judges and the priests Fall down on their knees While I lay in my blood on the ground

VERSE 4

When the sun shines on the wrong side of town I wake up with the light in my face And I look across to the dark And see children sleeping in the park I smile while I pull the shade down
